Vikings Drop Third Straight At Harbor Springs Friday Nine 51-48

The Charlevoix Red Rayders will make the Grayling High team's final regular home game for the Vikings this Friday night. Other conference games on this week will find Harbor Springs at East Jordan, Gaylord at Boyne City and Mancelona at Pellston.

The Vikings, after losing their third straight game last Friday night at Harbor Springs by a spread of three points, will be looking to get back on the victory trail. Charlevoix was defeated last Friday by East Jordan 67 to 58 and will also be out for a victory. The game would appear to shape up as one of the best of the season as both teams fight to stay in a mathematical position for top conference honors.

Last Friday at Harbor Springs, the first period of play ended in a 11 point deadlock between the Vikings and Rams. In the second quarter of play, the Vikings outscored their hosts 12 to 7 to take a 23 to 18 point lead at intermission. The Vikings, in the third quarter, the Rams ran wild, scoring 24 points on 10 field goals and 4 out of 7 free throws while holding Grayling to 4 field goals. The Rams held a decisive 42 to 31 edge as the last eight minutes of play opened. Grayling battled back with a strong 17 to 9 last period but fell short.

Each team had 20 field goals but Grayling had a 33 percent success rate as the Rams hit 11 out of 25 attempts and the Vikings hit 8 out of 15. Grayling was called for 15 fouls and Harbor Springs 12.

Frank Goss scored 22 points on 10 field goals and a pair of charity shots paced the Viking attack. Tim Neal with 11 points was also in the double figures. Joe Robertson added 7, Sherman Neal 4, Tom Wadell 5 and Young and Jim Sorenson a foul shot each. Gary Stuteman with 20 and Frank Lauer with 10 were high for the Rams.

Grayling's First Manager To Retire In Saginaw

C. A. (Al) Miller, Saginaw city manager since 1949, announced his retirement last week. Manager Miller started his career in this field in 1934 as Grayling's first city manager back in 1934 when the city changed to manager-city form of government.

The 58-year-old veteran municipal administrator said: "I take this step because it is my intention to discontinue the active practice of city management and adjust to a manner of living of a less demanding nature."

Mayor R. Dewey Stearns said: "Saginaw, for the last 12 years, has been blessed with exceptional and conscientious management, and my belief is shared by municipal leaders from coast to coast."

Stearns, who spared no effort to show his respect for Miller, called him a "staff" that any good industrial or business organization would like to have. Miller, a veteran of 27 years of city management, Miller came to Saginaw after holding a similar position in Traverse City for five years.

Grayling's First Manager To Retire In Saginaw

From Grayling he went to Kingsford in the Upper Peninsula. Miller is a former regional vice president of the International City Managers Association and holds life membership in the Michigan Municipal League.

To Be Used For Construction Purposes At Site

Governor Swainson today announced the possibility of obtaining up to $1,250,000 in federal funds for Michigan National Guard construction and operations.

Following a conference with Major General Ronald D. McDonald, the Adjutant General of Michigan, Governor Swainson said that the National Guard Bureau will ask for immediate release of up to $1,250,000 for construction at Camp Grayling.

Gen. McDonald conferred with the Governor on the results of his trip last week to the National Guard Bureau in Washington, D. C. He was accompanied there by Brigadier General Carson R. Neifert, the Quartermaster General, and Brigadier General John A. Johnston, Assistant Adjutant General for Air.

Governor Swainson said that the three Guard officers obtained $23,990 for basic operating funds for the Guard's Bases at Detroit and Battle Creek, an additional $11,500 for the service contract at Battle Creek, and $20,000 for an Air National Guard air-ground-range to be constructed at Camp Grayling this summer.

As a result of the conference in Washington, Major General Donald W. McGowan, Chief, National Guard Bureau, and Major General Clayton F. Kerr, Chief of the Army Branch of the Bureau, will present to the Department of Defense the complete construction program for Camp Grayling.

Funds will be requested to complete all the 54 enlisted and 12 officer bathhouse latrines required and approximately 67 mess halls. The Bureau will ask for immediate release of $1,250,000, or $900,000 or a minimum of $300,000.

The original planning called for an investment of $300,000 in 1961, $900,000 in 1962, and $1,250,000 in 1963 to construct the bathhouse latrines and mess halls.

The master plan for expansion and modernization of Camp Grayling facilities calls for expenditures totaling $4,547,000 between 1961 and 1966, the Governor said.

General Neifert assured the National Guard Bureau that his office is prepared to place under contract projects costing up to $900,000 before the first of June. The State Building Division has made the necessary topographic survey and the Quartermaster General's Office has the plans for the mess halls and latrines that have already been approved by the Department of Defense.

Camp Grayling is one of the finest training facilities in the United States, according to Lieutenant General Paul L. Freeman, Deputy Commander, Continental Army Command. General McGowan and Kerr concurred in this when they visited Camp Grayling last summer to observe the training of the National Guard Divisions.

General McGowan is anxious to complete the facilities at Camp Grayling because of its importance in supporting the training of Indiana and Ohio National Guard Divisions in addition to Michigan troops, General McDonald told the Governor.

With the completion of construction at Camp Grayling, it is expected that an additional state will be invited to train there. This, too, will help the economy of Michigan, as the state has shown that each National Guardsman in training brings to the state for his 15-day training period an average of $100.

Red Cross Chapters Launch '61 Fund Drive Across United States

Wednesday, March 1, will be a date of extreme importance to the continued well-being of every family in Crawford County. Mrs. C. G. Clippert, county chairman, said today.

Throughout the county volunteers of the Crawford County Red Cross Chapter on that day will launch their annual month-long campaign to re-enroll their neighbors as Red Cross members and to enlist their financial help in carrying out its health, welfare, and family programs.

The campaign theme is "Good Things Happen When You Help," she said. "These six words epitomize the work of the Red Cross—humanity in action—the world over," she added.

"As Red Cross members," Mrs. Clippert continued, "every American has the opportunity to help restore the disrupted lives of disaster victims; provide blood for the ill and injured; train families in first aid, water safety, and home nursing; solve personal and family problems of servicemen, veterans, and their dependents; and prepare youth to become tomorrow's family, community, and national leaders."

The Crawford County chapter's campaign goal is $2,187.00, to support the chapter's community services in 1961-62 and defray its share of the national Red Cross fund drive for the year.

"Red Cross members help contribute to the well-being of every American family," General Alfred M. Gruenther, Red Cross president, said. "Through its achievements in the relief of suffering from disasters, accidents, and illness, the Red Cross touches the lives of more Americans than does any other agency outside the Federal Government."

A kick-off luncheon was enjoyed by some thirty workers at the Woman's Club house last Thursday. The very tasty food was prepared and served by Mrs. Walker Trustetter, Mrs. C. R. Holcomb, Mrs. Thomas Haugh, Mrs. Clifton Peterson, and Mrs. Leroy Millikin, members of the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Clippert was chairman of the meeting announced that she has 50 workers and of all contacted had only one refusal which is very gratifying. She also thanked Mrs. Carl Peterson and Mrs. George Griffith for their assistance in organizing the drive.

Eagles Lose To Central Lake

Last Friday night at Frederic, both the Eagle varsity and reserves led most of the way in the game with Central Lake but lost in the final minutes.

Central Lake started their second stringers against Frederic and the Eagles built up a 10 to 6 advantage. The first five were then thrown in but Frederic still outscored them 14 to 12 lead at halftime 24 to 18. In the third quarter, Central Lake got moving and scored 18 points to Frederic's 11 to make the score 36 to 35 Central Lake at the final eight minutes of play.

Central Lake outscored the Eagles 15 to 12 in the final period to win 51 to 47. Frederic was one point behind with a minute and a half to go. They probably should have put on a stall and waited for an open shot but they took a poor one in a hurry and that was the ball game.

Redman hit for 15 points for Frederic with Smith and Anderson adding 9 points each, Wilson 6 and Pratt and Mertes 4 each.

In the opening contest Friday night, the Frederic reserves were leading 30 to 19 at halftime but scored only 10 more points in the entire second half and lost 45 to 40. Bob Barber with 13 points was high man for the Eagles.

On Wednesday night at Central Lake, the Frederic Junior High team trailed by one point at halftime but fought back in the second half to win 34 to 29. This marked only the second defeat for the Central Lake Junior High this year.

Carol Mayer with 18 and Florence Cox with 10 points were high for the Frederic girls team in a one sided 64 to 39 loss to the Central Lake girls in the second game of the evening.

The Frederic girls team and Junior High will entertain teams from Rapid City at Frederic on Wednesday night and on Friday night, the Eagles varsity and reserves will entertain the Central Lake team.

Economic Climate In Michigan Is In Serious Need Of Improvement

PROBABLY THERE NEVER was a time when more Michigan people were thinking and talking more about programs to create jobs than now. This includes both community and state levels. And probably there has never been a time when people of the state were as willing to work together in such programs.

Unemployment figures, business reports and recently the announcement that Norge will move its Muskegon Heights plant to Arkansas made it quite clear in everyone's mind that the economic climate in Michigan is in serious need of improvement—and now.

The Norge incident is dramatic evidence of a situation which has been in the news for many months. For a year the rumor had been rife that the plant would be moved. Community leaders and representatives of the state Economic Development Department worked hard, even desperately to hold electric refrigerator production here. But it became apparent that the new, one million square foot plant near Fort Smith, Ark., could easily produce both gas and electric models. On Feb. 1, it was announced that the somewhat antiquated Muskegon Heights would be closed.

Arkansas' Gov. Orval E. Faubus incidentally, lost no time in claiming that the state's gain was largely the result of legislation adopted recently and designed to lure industry there. They have a law which permits municipalities to issue revenue bonds to build plants for industry. Greenwood, Ark., a suburb of Fort Smith, issued a $7.5 million bond issue to build the Norge plant.

Michigan leaders must now decide what programs this state will adopt to help in its situation. The newly elected Governor, John E. Swainson, indicates that he will have several recommendations. One approach to receive serious consideration involves a way for the state to aid local groups financing construction of buildings for lease to industry. In the past this and similar programs have been considered too liberal by the Legislature. But other states, some of them with a reputation for being conservative, have adopted such programs. To many in this state, especially the hard working staff of the Economic Development Department, some new programs are urged. Five years ago the Pennsylvania legislature appropriated $5 million for plant construction loans. From year to year additional sums have been appropriated, to a present total of $18 million. For each plant construction project that qualifies the state loans a third of the cost, and a community industrial development corporation and local bank divide the rest. Commitments from the state fund have reached more than $16,000,000.

One job was created. Pennsylvania estimates, for every $654 loaned by the state. Payrolls created are estimated at $92 million a year. A standard assumption would show one per cent of this payroll paid by the recipients in direct and indirect taxes to the state and its local units of government, which would mean a million dollars coming back in taxes each year on $18 million of loans.

Republican Governor Rockefeller recommended to New York legislators this winter a plan similar to the one in Pennsylvania. "I am convinced," said Gov. Rockefeller in his opening message, "that a program of this kind can provide us with a more basic approach to the problem."

Pennsylvania has advertised for several years that "100 per cent financing of industrial plants" is available. In fact, Pennsylvania has spent something more than half a million for this advertising alone. Five years ago the Pennsylvania legislature appropriated $5 million for plant construction loans. From year to year additional sums have been appropriated, to a present total of $18 million. For each plant construction project that qualifies the state loans a third of the cost, and a community industrial development corporation and local bank divide the rest. Commitments from the state fund have reached more than $16,000,000.

Republican Governor Rockefeller recommended to New York legislators this winter a plan similar to the one in Pennsylvania. "I am convinced," said Gov. Rockefeller in his opening message, "that a program of this kind can provide us with a more basic approach to the problem."

The meat industry hopes to standardize inspection routines which now take place in a number of cities and communities at the expense of local government and place authority to inspect meat products in the hands of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Most obvious benefits are economic. It is simply more efficient to deal with one set of standardized inspection requirements than with numerous and differing ordinances. The consumer gets a more complete protection and standardized labeling of meat products. The producer need secure only one license instead of one for each community where he wishes to operate. The new inspection method would permit earlier detection of unsafe animal diseases and permit them to enforce regulations.

In short, Michigan packers, most of whom used to deal in only a few communities, find themselves hampered in their efforts to expand into other markets. The statewide inspection system would permit them to control more consumers with less red tape.

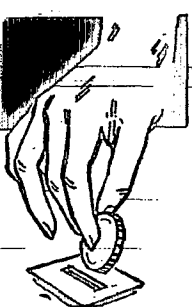

The meat and livestock industry employs more than 575,000 people annually, says Charles Watson, president of Vogel Meat Packing Co. and of NMPAFLA. It is a basic industry of the state, he says, and it needs the advantages of good, statewide meat inspection program.

Your Opportunity . . .

One of the attributes that sets us humans apart from most of our fellow inhabitants of this crowded planet is the desire to help someone in need or in trouble.

Even in the best of us, this impulse of mercy may seem to weaken under the pressures of daily living in his highly organized and impersonal society of ours.

But, through our voluntary contributions of time and money to such welfare agencies as the American Red Cross, we are helping people in need as truly as if our hands were touching theirs.

March, designated as Red Cross Month by the President of the United States, again gives us opportunity to extend a helping hand to others.

More than a million Americans will be conducting a month-long, nation-wide drive to enroll their neighbors as Red Cross members with a "Good Things Happen When You Help" appeal.

When you become a Red Cross member, your helping hand reaches:

Next door, where the mother, trained in Red Cross home nursing, takes care of a sick child;

Down the block, where a man trained in Red Cross first aid, saves the life of a traffic victim;

Across town, where Red Cross-collected blood keeps hospital patient alive;

Across the nation, where Red Cross disaster workers are helping a tornado-stricken family rebuild its home;

To Saudi Arabia, where a Red Cross field director is helping a U. S. serviceman make an emergency trip home, and

To Chile and Morocco, where the American Red Cross and other members of the world-wide League of Red Cross Societies help earthquake victims.

Truly, through your Red Cross you help make good things happen wherever people are in need or in trouble.

People Must Demand Economy . . .

The Wriston Report on national goals, and similar studies of what the future may bring, make sobering reading. If they are correct, the most strenuous kind of national effort and sacrifice will be needed to deal with them.

For one thing, it is forecast that massive increases in federal spending will become inevitable, primarily because of the omnivorous demands of national defense and related activities. These can be paid for in several ways. There could be a further increase in taxes which is certainly the last alternative anyone could wish. There should be increased government tax revenue from an expanding economy. And avoidable expenses of government can be reduced or eliminated.

This is the time to make a determined start in the last direction.

What we must do is to decide, coldly and analytically, what is necessary and unavoidable for government to do—as against what may be merely desirable. We no longer can afford the billions upon billions that go for non-essential undertakings—whether it be an extension of the welfare state, the purchase of farm commodities for which there is no market, or commercial business projects which can and should be the responsibility of taxpaying private enterprise.

About twenty took part in a skating program put on by the Alpena Figure Skating Club at the Winter Sports Park Sunday, under direction of J. A. Bezotte of Alpena. Miss Betty Bezotte was the first to appear and was followed by Miss June Stoner, in singles. Danny McDougall, athletic clown of the group, could fall down much better than he could skate and he kept the crowd in laughter. Another clever single was presented by Miss DeLores Hart which was followed by a group wait in which 12 skaters took part. At this time a brief program was given in which Grayling's queen, Miss Naomi Wheeler was officially crowned at the winter throne, at the feet of the 30-foot winter snowman. Other skating numbers followed in quick succession, among them a double by Alpena's oldest and youngest skaters—ages 70 and 8, and they both did well.

Nell Gray Welsh celebrated her twelfth birthday Saturday when she had 11 girls as her guests from 4 in the afternoon until 8 in the evening. The dinner table was attractively arranged for dinner with George Washington decorations and favors for the guests, who included Jane Milnes, Billyann Clippert, Jean Simpson, Gloria Jean McDaniels, Rose Mary Charron, Rhoda Jean Miller, Mildred Smith, Jeanne Lou Graham and Maxine Mellichar.

A small crowd was present at the firemen's benefit ball Washington's birthday. The school gym was ablaze with flags and bunting and very attractive. Music was furnished by the Fiddlers orchestra and everyone was delighted with it. This was a really very fine party and deserving of a much larger attendance. Besides the men of the fire department are doing a fine job for the public and are well deserving of the patronage they received. Naturally the men are disappointed at the small attendance. The proceeds from their dances are for use of the members' families in case of accidents incurred while on duty.

M. M. Church News

"Our Mission in Africa" was the topic as Miss Alrene Peterson, missionary recently returned from Southern Rhodesia, gave a graphic word-picture of the need of today, an awakening of the world, demanding freedom, in his unskilled hands becomes anarchy. Like all missionaries with first-hand experiences relate, Miss Peterson has been very much in demand since her return during the holidays. She will be presented again on March 11 at a family night potluck dinner, this time illustrating her message with slides depicting modern life, costumes, etc. Please note that this event has been postponed from the original to which was announced as February 28th.

Sunday was a day of great re-echoing at Michelson Memorial as Mrs. Rowland rejoined her Sunday School class after eight months in a Grand Rapids hospital. Northland Products Company, formerly known as St. Helens Products Company of St. Helens, Michigan has been purchased by Mr. John Laur and Mr. Tracy Andrews of Gaylord, Michigan from Mr. Cliff Brown of St. Helens, who founded the company in 1947 and is the originator of Nu-Dri and Dri-Seal Sealers made for homes, resorts and industry.

Plant and Equipment have been moved to Gaylord where Mr. Laur and Mr. Andrews will manufacture and distribute Nu-Dri and Dri-Seal Sealers plus distributing Log Cabin Finishes and Sealers — manufactured to their specifications.

One of their leading products is a sealer for cement or cement block buildings that not only waterproofs, but is rustproof, resists heat or cold, is vibration proof and will not crack.

Northland Products Company will also manufacture a Boat Sealer — Tarp Sealer — Roof Sealer and a Muffler Sealer that is already marketed by two of the largest Wholesale Automotive Supply Houses in Chicago.

Mr. Laur and Mr. Andrews stated that they will be distributors for all types of Glazing, Caulking Compounds and Caulking Guns with additional products added as the Company expands.

With the tremendous building program throughout the country there is always a need for the finest in Sealers and it is with this in mind that Northland Products Company hopes to expand their distribution in Michigan and other states, according to the new owners.

Grayling Bowhunter's Archery League

Dick Johnson Blasts Into Orbit

Grayling Bowhunters' February 20th, 1961. Last Monday night amid the cheers of team members and the friendly heckling of opponents, Dick Johnson of the Bear Archery team went into orbit. He shot 426 out of a possible 500 to put his team "way out" in front.

This score is 27 points higher than any he has shot this year. And since this team shoot is conducted on a 100% non-increasing handicap basis, Dick will be hard pressed to maintain scores as such as that he shot Monday. Although he will have difficulty helping his team score, he will have the record of a tremendous individual instinctive effort.

The Baringer Bruins were the high scoring team for the night with 12 of a possible 16 points. This was just one more point than those won by the forerunning Bear Archery team. The Bruins' success was won largely due to the powers of their new team member, Mick Hatfield and of Harvey Hill who had just returned from a four week trip to Indiana.

Betty Stough was hot Monday and managed to beat our lady sight shooting champ, Mary Kipp by 61 points. We sighted Mary Kipp in last week's report. We said that she shot 319 when she should have been a rousing 427. Our apologies.

Top Ind. Honors for the evening: Sight Shooters, Men - Don Stough, 424; Women, Betty Stough, 431.

Instinctive Shooters: Men, Dick Johnson, 228; Women, Betty Bunker, 271.
